

Providence Extension Program | Core C American Literature
Q1 W3 Weekly Assignment Guide (9/7, 9/9)

WOW: Word(s) Of the Week

disputatious

adj | dis•pew•TAY•shuss

inclined to dispute; argumentative

With differing opinions and policies, the two political parties often produce disputatious candidates.

propriety

noun | pro•PRY•ity

The quality of being proper; appropriateness

As a young man, Ben Franklin once argued for the propriety of educating women.

No Class Tuesday 9/7—Labor Day Holiday

You do, however, have quite a bit of work due for Thursday, including your first writing assignment.

Here's a hint: get started now!

Due Thursday 9/9: (Literature of Revolution)

Read and annotate from American Literature text:

- Deism (p. 99)
- Ben Franklin (p. 100, 102 – 111)

Reading Response #1—Upload to Turn-It In by 8 a.m. (prompt, details below)

Answer the prompt below using the TRIAC method:

The worldview of the early settlers is readily apparent in the literature that we have read up to this point. How did this view help the colonists face the great challenge of settlement? Your answer must include one properly integrated quote from what we have read in class as evidence and must reach 200 words.

Use the "RR 1" document on Weebly for your submission.

See also the TRIAC handout on Weebly to help with the steps.